

Kylie Eisman Lifschitz

Founder & Principal

Kylie is an organizational consultant with over 20 years' experience in the commercial and non-profit sectors, helping her clients thrive at work.

Kylie founded Workwell in 2021 taking an individually-tailored, practical, behavioral science approach to helping clients develop their own personal leadership style, as well as cultivating and enhancing their teams and building their organizations.

Kylie has a Bachelor of Arts and Law from Sydney University and a Masters in Organizational Behavior and Development from IDC.

Kylie's began her career as an intellectual property and commercial lawyer, working for several years in Israel's booming hi-tech sector with a high-profile Jerusalem law firm and serving as in-house counsel for the Hebrew University's intellectual property commercialization company.

In 2004 she was recruited as a Senior Associate of International Relations by a large New York-based global non-profit, the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee (JDC). At JDC Kylie managed partnerships with major donors and foundations, later serving as Director of Education and Training for the International Relations division and as a consultant to JDC's Global Human Resources division.

In 2013, Kylie joined the boutique Israeli consulting firm, Message Experts and for the past 7 years has been running leadership workshops with large global companies such as Cisco, Intel and Siemens, as well as online international trainings and seminars for global non-profits such as JDC and the Schusterman Foundation.

During a sabbatical year in Sydney, Kylie conducted workshops and coached the CEOs of a large food distribution business and local Jewish agencies. Kylie also facilitates retreats, seminars and conferences for clients, including the Ministry of Diaspora Affairs.

Kylie lives in Jerusalem with her husband, Boaz, who runs a venture capital fund, and together they have five children and a very large Rhodesian Ridgeback dog. Kylie enjoys long distance running and also serves as the Chair of Mavoi Satum, a nonprofit that works to address social and religious inequality in the Israeli legal system.

HELPING PEOPLE THRIVE AT WORK:

➤ At the personal level Kylie coaches CEOs and senior executives to overcome work challenges, initiate change processes, develop personal strengths, negotiate career paths and develop leadership skills.

➤ At the team level Kylie helps managers develop and grow their teams, improve motivation and performance, manage behavioral change, increase diversity and promote innovation.

➤ At the organizational level Kylie helps facilitate conferences, strategic planning retreats and processes, direct restructuring efforts and developing resilience in moments of organizational crisis.